

THE COLLECTIVE INTELLIGENCE
OF YOUR COMPANY

Brand book · v1.0 · October 2026

The numbers are written down. What people know is not.

Xhive captures what people in a company know and writes it down: structured interviews, cross-checked against documents, mapped into what to document now, what to automate and what is already in place — before buying, after acquiring or before selling a company.

The brand has to feel like a serious due-diligence partner: calm, exact, confidential, with one confident accent.

The mark is an X: four square-cut arms crossing at 45° around an octagonal opening. The arms are the people and functions of a company; the opening is the knowledge they hold together — the hive. Everything else is built from that X: its 45° angle, its hard corners, its orange.

Logo versions

Clear space, size and misuse

Clear space on every side = half the width of the mark. Minimum size: lockup 20 mm / 80 px wide; mark alone 5 mm / 16 px.

- The wordmark is always lowercase xhive. In running text write Xhive.
- The mark is orange whenever colour is available. Navy or cream only for one-colour reproduction.
- Place the logo top-left or bottom-left, never centred over a busy graphic.

Don't recolour

Don't rotate off 45°

Don't fill the opening

No shadows or effects

Don't retype the wordmark

Don't stretch or squash

Contrast rules

15.2 : 1 · all text

5.2 : 1 · text and highlights

5.2 : 1 · button labels, text on orange

4.7 : 1 · orange as small text on cream

Avoid

- White on orange is 3.3 : 1 — only for type of 24 px / 18 pt and larger.
- Orange on cream is 2.9 : 1 — use it for the mark and shapes, never for body text; use Orange Deep instead.
- Navy Ghost on navy is decoration only (1.25 : 1).

Print

CMYK values in this book are mechanical conversions from RGB. Proof Navy and Orange with your printer and record the matched values (or a Pantone match) here before the first print run.

Both families are free Google Fonts (SIL Open Font License); files are in 03-Fonts. Fallbacks: Arial Narrow / Arial. Highlight the turn in a headline with colour — not bold or italics.

Built from the X. One per layout, two at most.

The cropped X

The mark scaled up and bled off an edge or corner. Keep the opening in view.

The ghost X

A giant X in Navy Ghost on navy, bleeding off top or left. Texture, not a message.

Stripes

Orange bars with 45° chevron ends, staggered, bleeding off the right edge.

Mark tile

The mark centred in a navy or paper square at ~55% of the tile.

Square corners everywhere. Only 45° diagonals. No gradients, drop shadows or photos inside the X. Layouts sit on an 8 px grid; page margins 20 mm in print, 64 px on screen.

Direct, plain, a little dry.

Short sentences. We talk to owners and buyers as equals — like an experienced advisor who has seen a lot of companies and tells you straight.

Do

- Say what happens: “We talk to your people and write down what they know.”
- Name steps and outcomes: “Same process, three steps.”
- Open with a question: “Where are you right now?”
- State confidentiality plainly: “Your data stays with the company.”

Don't

- Hype, AI buzzwords, “revolutionary”, “unlock”.
- Exclamation marks and emoji.
- Long sentences stacked with jargon.
