THE COLLECTIVE INTELLIGENCE FOR YOUR COMPANY

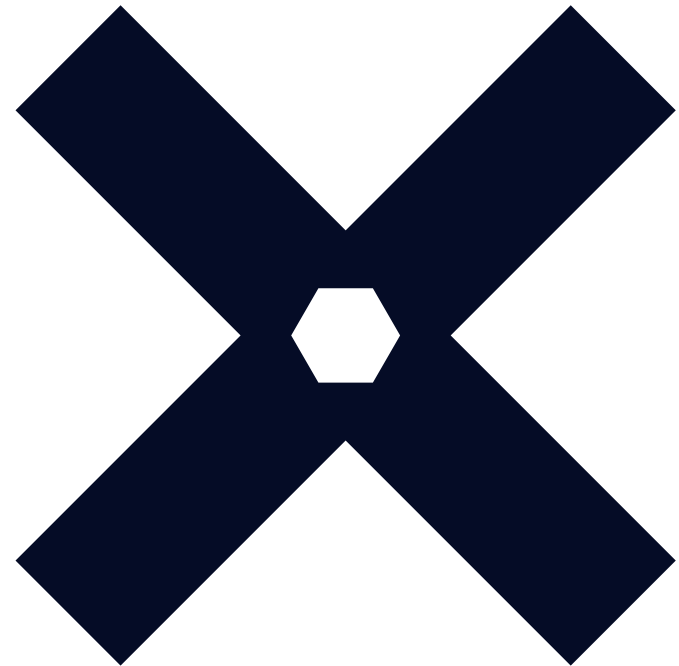

BRAND BOOK · V3.0 · OCTOBER 2026

WE DIGITALISE THE KNOWLEDGE IN PEOPLE'S HEADS

Xhive captures what people in a company know and writes it down: structured interviews, cross-checked against documents, mapped into what to document now, what to automate and what is already in place — before buying, after acquiring or before selling a company.

The logo reads Xhive. The X is four square-cut arms crossing at 45° around a hexagon — a honeycomb cell, the hive. The same hexagon dots the i. The arms are the people and functions of a company; the cell in the middle is the knowledge they hold together.

Two shapes build everything else: the X (45°, hard corners) and the hexagon (60°).

CONSTRUCTION, CLEAR SPACE, SIZE

1.0

- The X fits a square. Arm width = 22.5% of the square — a lighter X than the first artwork (26.6%).
- Hole: a flat-topped hexagon, 16.5% of the square, centred. The i-dot is a regular flat-topped hexagon; its top sits exactly level with the top of the "h".
- Arm ends are cut square; arms cross at exactly 45°.

Clear space on every side = two hexagon dots (≈ half the logo height).

MINIMUM SIZE

Logo: 20 mm / 80 px wide.

X alone: 5 mm / 16 px.

WRITING THE NAME

In text: Xhive (one word, capital X). The X in the logo is the first letter — never add another.

RULES

- Orange on white is for big type (as on the slides) — never body text. Small orange text on light grounds uses Orange Deep #B94A20 (4.8 : 1).
- White on orange is 3.0 : 1 — headlines only. Buttons on orange use navy labels.
- Navy Ghost and Orange Tint are decoration only.

PRINT

CMYK values here are mechanical conversions from RGB. Proof Navy and Orange with your printer and record the matched values (or a Pantone match) before the first print run.

CAPITALS THAT CARRY THE MESSAGE

HOW MUCH KNOWLEDGE IS A BLIND SPOT?

Barlow Condensed for headlines, always in CAPITALS, leading 0.9.
Highlight the words that carry the meaning – the outcome, the number,
the risk – in orange.

Barlow for body copy. Poppins Black lives only inside the logo.

All free Google Fonts (SIL Open Font License); files in 03-Fonts. Fallbacks: Arial Narrow / Arial.

BUILT FROM THE X AND THE HEXAGON

HEX-BAR FRAME · NAVY

Elongated hexagons bleed off left and right, centre stays clear for the message.

HEX-BAR FRAME · LIGHT

The same frame in Orange Tint on white.

CIRCUIT LINES

Thick navy lines with 45° bends running in from the edges, on orange.

SIGNAL STRIPES

Orange hex-ended bars bleeding off the right edge, staggered.

GHOST AND CROPPED X

A giant X in Navy Ghost behind content, or orange X cropped off a corner.

HEXAGON PHOTO FRAMES

People in black and white, cropped to flat-topped hexagons, on navy.

One or two devices per layout. Square corners, only 45° and 60° angles, no gradients or drop shadows. Optional: a fine halftone dot grain ($\leq 8\%$) over slide grounds.

SHORT. DIRECT. CONFIDENT.

Talk to owners and buyers as equals. Big lines are bold and capitalised; the body copy underneath stays plain and calm.

HOW WE WRITE HEADLINES

- Lead with the consequence: “3 of 8 key people are a flight risk.”
- Ask the uncomfortable question: “How much important knowledge is a blind spot?”
- Pair buy and sell: “Buy the business, know what keeps it running.”
- Use real numbers and make them orange.

DON'T

- All buzzwords, “revolutionary”, “unlock”, emoji.
- Exclamation marks — except live calls to action at events.
- More than one idea per slide.
